Photocopies of documents from the National Archives, which pertain to New Orleans architecture of the first half of the 19th century. Most of the documents deal with federally sponsored building projects in New Orleans and St. Bernard Parish, including Jackson Barracks.

PROVENANCE

Copies were made by the National Archives for Pamela Scott who was working on The Papers of Robert Mills for the Smithsonian Institution in 1988. Scott gave the copies as a favor to S.E.A.A. for having sent her copies of its Mills material for her project in 1988.
